1. Explanation of and Rationale for Proposed Change: (Please use additional pages if necessary. For new programs, please include any relevant supporting documentation such as student learning outcomes, projected enrollments, letters of support, and departmental handouts.)

Two years ago we established a new admission policy for this degree that in practice has created bottlenecks and access issues in key undergraduate classes. This has been especially true for transfer students. This proposal simplifies the process of declaring a major in Ceramics.

In order to eliminate bottlenecks and create better access, we have also eliminated most of the prerequisites on 200 level Art classes. Traditionally students have had to take as many as 15 -20 credits of 100 level classes before they could begin to take the 200 levels. After reviewing the situation, the faculty decided to reorganize the 100 and 200 level classes into "Introductory Classes" that are open to all students without prerequisites. In turn, they designated 300 and 400 level classes as "Intermediate and Advanced". This will provide a broad and clear path for Ceramic majors and non-majors to complete coursework in the School of Art. The proposal opens the door for students to move easily and confidently through our introductory classes into the challenging experience of the 300 and 400 levels.

The proposal eliminates the present admission requirements. Retains the same number of credits but rearranges them to prevent bottlenecks and access issues. Adds Art 120 as a requirement.

2. Catalog Copy

A. Catalog Copy as Currently Written (Include only sections/paragraphs that would be changed if your request is approved. Please cross out or otherwise highlight any deletions.)

The minimum GPA for application to the School of Art is 2.50. Most successful applicants have significantly higher GPAs. The average GPA for successful applicants is 3.30.

Admission to Ceramics: Students must complete prerequisite art and art history courses unique to each major (see Major Requirements, below). Students then complete and submit the School of Art Portfolio Review Application to Art Advising, 104 Art, during the quarter in which they are completing their last prerequisite class(es). Admission is competitive, based on: grades earned in the prerequisite art and art history classes; two written portfolio reviews completed by instructors in the prerequisite art classes; cumulative GPA at the UW.

Students will be notified of acceptance through their UW email after final grades have been posted and/or within 2 weeks of submitting their application. Students then complete the required 200-level course and apply to the major (see Major Requirements, below).
