EXPLANATION OF AND RATIONALE FOR PROPOSED CHANGE

For new program, please include any relevant supporting documentation such as student learning outcomes, projected enrollments, letters of support and departmental handouts. (Use additional pages if necessary).

Formerly the BA in Architectural Design prerequisites included Arch 210 (4 credits) Arch 211 (4 credits). These courses have recently been given new numbers and credits, Arch 200 (5 credits) and Arch 201 (5 credits), to align their numbers with similar courses in the curriculum and to reflect the workload in the courses. These actions were approved by the UW curriculum committee, effective Autumn 2014.

The courses have also been moved from winter to autumn (200) and spring to winter (201). This allows students time to complete both required prerequisites before the spring quarter application deadline for the BA in Architectural Design program.

Along with the approved change in credits for these courses we are suggesting that 3 credits of electives
